Live streaming, virtual and hybrid events
at wallacespace

The world has changed dramatically over the last 6 months.

Most of us have been forced to work from home. Large scale meetings and events have been cancelled and the likelihood of returning to 'normal' seems very far away. However, the need for people, businesses and organisations to meet, network, pitch, and present is still very real.

Wallacespace is embracing the digital opportunities this new landscape offers by working with QPUK to bring you high quality virtual conferencing solutions to complement our exceptional spaces for thinking, creating and collaborating.

With our new on-site video team, we can host any event or meeting, both on site and virtually. Current circumstances mean more barriers to meeting face to face, so we have developed an exciting range of full virtual and hybrid solutions, ranging from single camera streams all the way to multi-location, multi-stream, virtual events.

We will never try to dazzle you with technology, to sell you something you don't need, or force you to fit your complex event into a rigid, pre-determined package. We will listen to and take time to fully understand your needs to give you the right solution for your event and help you achieve better outcomes.

We have brought together the best technology and people to make this happen. QPUK have over 15 years of experience in filming and streaming events across the globe. Teaming up with QPUK allows us to combine production experience with inspiring and unique spaces to offer an incredible virtual and hybrid event experience that is second to none.

We've outlined some suggested packages over the following pages. These are intended as a guide rather than boxes that you must fit your event into. Call us to tell us what you need and we will work with you to recommend the perfect solution for the outcomes you are looking for.

How does it work?

Our friendly team work with you from your initial enquiry to create a bespoke virtual event, individually tailored to your vision and business needs.

Pre-recorded content experience

When time is on your side, pre-recorded content is the best way to achieve a polished and professional presentation. We can pre-record and playback key parts of your presentation so it appears live, meaning your performance is rehearsed and flawless, leaving you free to focus on live Q&A or any interactive elements.

Ideal for...

Company updates, webinars, interviews, case studies, focus groups, piece to camera. The pre-recorded option works well for anything that does not need to go live immediately or needs to be played out during your big event.

More detail...

Our creative video team and event team will work with you to re-create a live environment set up for any pre-recorded filming, presentations or event content. In our safe and spacious studios, our on-site film and edit team can work with you to ensure that any filming brief is met - whether it is to be played out during your event or used in another way.

What are the benefits?

Take your time - rehearse and take time to ensure your content is made in the best way possible for the virtual audience.

Multiple angles and multiple takes - using multiple camera angles allows us to create dynamic edits from multiple takes, ensuring the best performance possible from your participants.

Make it your way - our in house edit team will work with you to create the final product ready for launch.

Finishing touches - keep it simple or add graphics, film and animated elements to help improve the overall look and feel of the edit.

How does it work?

Our dedicated production and post-production team work alongside you from start to finish, you will have support at every stage to create the best product possible.
